6. CAMHD Report (continued)	population, at a rate of three times the risk of exposure to these meds; compared to other children who have a chemical imbalance. This, he stated, the Federal Government is very concerned about the usage of psychotropic medication for behavioral compliance. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Dr. Michels added that foster children, who are taken from their biological home, experience traumatic trauma that leads to disrupted behavioral problems, conduct disorder, etc. These behavioral problems are more related to their environment, and these children don't necessarily need medications to help them with their problems, but may require medication to help with their mental illness. • Hawaii is rated second to the lowest for the usage of psychotropic medication, and the State of Texas was deemed the highest in the nation. • Meetings have been scheduled between CAMHD, Child Welfare and Med-QUEST to establish protocols and policies on how to monitor the use of psychotropic medications in foster children. Questions/Answers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • In Hawaii, what is the ethnic profile for the 5% population who receive psychotropic meds? Answer: Will need to analyze the data in more detail. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Do you have any idea on the approximation of the national profile of this report? Answer: The data shows that certain ethnicity is at a higher risk in the foster care population; however, there is a need to look at the detail of the data. Report on the Mokihana Project on Kauai: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Dr. Michels gave a brief overview on the history of the Mokihana Project. • He noted that the Mokihana Project is integrated to handle behavioral health in addition to education; CAMHD staff are located within the schools. • One of the operational challenges in this project is that clients are shared between Departments of Health and Education, which results in the complex accounting of providing and paying for services.

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • CAMHD has found a solution to bill separately for services, and this will increase their ability to bill Med-QUEST. • Another issue that CAMHD will address in the future is supervision and implementation of documentation standards among staff of both entities.

Highlights of the presentation: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Evidence Base Service (EBS) committee built the website. The idea behind the website is to help parents in Hawaii get information on EBS practices. • The goal of the website is to expose parents and youth to EBS, educate them on questions to ask care providers, and receive information on services through the quickest route possible. • There are three (3) categories on the website: Parent Skill, Keiki Skill and Therapy types. • Parents/Caregivers are able to navigate the system by topics, read about interventions unique to diagnoses and are related to EBS practices, and learn how to connect to these services via prompts. • Although the site is primarily built with Hawaii constituents in mind, it is available globally through the internet. • The website is: www.helpyourkeiki.com Mr. Marder stated that as technology becomes more available, CAMHD hopes to assist those who are currently unable to access the internet. Suggestions from the audience on marketing the website: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ms. Mansfield suggested using the word “family” as opposed to “parent” because there are a lot of people who parent a child that are not necessarily the child’s biological parent. • Ms. Tracey Wise, from Hawaii Island, suggested that Mr. Marder contact Mr. Marty Hackel, Chairperson for the Statewide Prevent Suicide Task Force, to disseminate information about the website to a larger audience. • Mr. Freitas suggested placing a link on private schools’ websites, so that private schools can access the information.
